Proposed Changes to the Floodplain Development Ordinance. Charlie Richter, City Engineer and Craig Clarkson, ISG Engineering presented the proposed amendment to the ordinance. Research has been complete in other communities to see how changes could be made. Due to flooding events, in the past few years in Brookings, suggestions are being proposed. Freeboard Requirements is being recommended based on studies performed. These requirements would require all new construction and substantial improvements of nonresidential structures within certain zones to have the lowest floor elevated to two feet or more above the base flood level. Compensatory Storage Requirements are being recommended additionally, this would combat pushing one person's water problems onto another person. Compensatory Storage Requirements will be a significant added cost for developers. Tilton Byrne would like staff to look at an Overlay District that would not allow for basements in the district if it was in a floodplain.

John Thompson, Public Works Director and Charlie Richter, City Engineer presented to Council and citizens the projects included in the 2023 Capital Improvements Plan.
